WALTHAM GIRL IN RIVER TRAGEDY TOOK OWN LIFE

Miss Ida Lehtimaki, Waltham girl who took poison and then jumped to death in the Charles River.

Miss Ida Lehtimaki, a weaver on $8 a week, was "tired of living," "tired of hard work," and she decided she was "through with life's struggle." So she found peace and rest in the Charles River.

The girl wore a diamond solitaire on the engagement finger, indicating the romance that is supposed to mean happiness. She was a mill girl, but she read Tolstoi. But, despite her ring and her romance, and her Tolstoi, the girl gave up.

This is the pitiful explanation, told in a neatly written note, of the body found floating by canoeists yesterday in that part of the river known as Purgatory Cove at Waltham.

Bruises on the face seemed suspicious and investigation was begun. Then the body was identified. This led to search of the girl's room at No. 368 Moody street, Waltham.

NOTE IS FOUND.

A note was found. It was addressed to the girl's landlord and landlady, Mr. and Mrs. Axel Lehtinen. It was in Finnish, the girl's native tongue, and is translated in part as follows:

"Don't bother to find my body. I am tired of living and of hard work. I am through with life's struggle."

At the time this note was discovered the authorities were making thorough investigation, lest there be any foul play in the case. But the note was taken by Mr. and Mrs.

Ferncroft Inn Bought by Hap Ward, Comedian

Ferncroft Inn of "Toodles" fame has been sold to Hap Ward, the comedian, who has long desired to put part of his wealth into a hotel venture. The price reported is $50,000.

On May 13, Ferncroft was "sold" at public auction to Archie A. Hurlburt, proprietor of Hurlburt's Hotel on Washington street, formerly the Boston Tavern. Former Mayor John F. Hurley of Salem, who presided at the auction block, knocked down the hostelry to Hurlburt for $51,500.

Hap Ward was one of the bidders at this auction.

On May 29 Harry K. Mansfield, then owner of Ferncroft, admitted that the Hurlburt purchase did not go through. Mr. Mansfield said:

"Hurlburt's backers didn't come across as planned. He deposited a check for $2,000, but I gave it back to him, he is such a good fellow."

Mr. Mansfield added that he had decided to keep the property and that three men who had worked for him had bought shares to run the place with him. But it is now sold to Hap Ward. He has a farm in Lynnfield and has tried to buy the Nutting House in Lynnfield, also the Hotel Lenox at different times.

LYNN CARMEN PROTEST AWARD

MRS. THAW AT SON'S SIDE

By L. V. B. RUCKER.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Harry K. Thaw today began what he confidently hoped, and his counsel professed to believe, would be his last appearance in court, a final successful effort to obtain his freedom.

Flanked by the gray-haired mother who has fought shoulder to shoulder with him for nine years and by numerous faithful friends, the slayer of Stanford White faced Justice Hendrick in Part Three of the Supreme Court in his habeas corpus proceedings to obtain his release from Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

It was Thaw's fourth habeas corpus effort to procure liberty, but the first in which his legal battle for trial by jury met with victory. It lacked just three days of nine years since the sensational shooting of White, that Thaw today made his seventh appearance in court and the work of picking the twelve jurors began.

CHOOSING A JURY.

The jury which will assist Judge Hendrick in reaching a decision as to Thaw's sanity was chosen from two regular panels aggregating 125 men.

John B. Stanchfield and Morgan J. O'Brien, counsel for Thaw, and Deputy Attorney-General Frank Cook examined each talesman at great length, and it was believed the choosing of the jury would take up a great deal of time.

Long before court was convened at 10:30 the county courthouse corridors were thronged by the usual crowds of Thaw "fans." They besieged the doors of the courtroom, but were denied admission until the 120 talesmen were accommodated.

Estimates of the probable length of the trial ranged from ten days to four weeks. One of the first to enter the courtroom was Dr. Austin Flint, veteran alienist, who on every occasion has declared Thaw insane.

The decision of the twelve men as to Thaw's sanity will not necessarily be binding on the court. In such cases the law provides that the court may call on a jury to assist him, but Justice Hendrick may reject the jury's verdict.

Accompanied by a deputy sheriff from Ludlow street jail, Thaw entered the courtroom at 10:26. He appeared smiling and confident. He smiled and nodded at several acquaintances and for a few moments sat at the press table talking to reporters.

O'BRIEN ASSISTS FATHER.

Morgan J. O'Brien, Jr., assisted his father and John B. Stanchfield for Thaw, and Frank D. Cook was aided by Deputy Attorney General Alfred L. Brecker.

David Robinson, secretary of the Broadway association, was the first talesman examined and he ran the gauntlet of questions with flying colors. It took him exactly fifteen minutes to qualify. That is, he was accepted tentatively, but was still subject to peremptory challenge. Henry Laid was excused because he had an opinion, as were Henry Lang and William T. Hensen.

WORKERS REFUSE OFFER

Employes of the Lynn division of the Bay State Street Railway Company, at meetings early today, voted unanimously to reject the award of the arbitration board, just made public, holding that the concessions in hours and wages were unsatisfactory.

President Walsh of the Lynn local of the union was instructed to telegraph President McMahon of the Amalgamated Street Railway Employes' Union of America, at Detroit, for permission to hold a meeting on Wednesday morning to discuss what further action should be taken.

While the union men at Lynn would not go into details, it was intimated that this meeting, if permission to hold it is granted, will be for the purpose of discussing the advisability of striking to obtain the full demands of the carmen, as presented before the arbitration board.

The day men of the Lynn division, who total 250, met at midnight. At 2 a. m. today the night men, of whom there are 200, opened their session. The votes on rejecting the award and on telegraphing to Detroit for sanction for a further meeting were unanimous at each session.

Meetings of the other unions among the employes of the Bay State Railroad are scheduled today at which it is believed that the members will vote against accepting the award of the arbitrators, which was made public today.

GREAT DISSATISFACTION.

At Hyde Park, a preliminary meeting to discuss the award developed the same intense dissatisfaction as at Lynn. No vote was taken in Hyde Park. The men there were unanimous in their expressed belief that the company can afford a bigger increase.

In woburn over 125 men met. President Murphy of the branch of Woburn and Reading employes announced that the union, winged it distinctly understood that the men were not satisfied. Many members of the union denounced the company and the arbitrators. Not a man spoke in favor of the award or of acceptance.

At Quincy, although final action was deferred, the 250 present at the meeting voted that the award is not satisfactory and the findings unjust.

DENOUNCED PELLETIER.

At the Chelsea meeting the reading of the award was greeted with cries of derision and shouts of "Strike!" Many called for the head of Pelletier. They yelled, "I move that Pelletier be put down and out for life." This was met with cheers.

At the meeting at No. 724 Washington street, Somerville, dissatisfaction was expressed by the men. No vote was taken, but speakers urged rejection of the decision of the arbitrators. Although the feeling against the company was bitter, one of the denunciations were directed against Attorney

LEMBERG'S CAPTURE NEAR

VIENNA, June 22.—Lemberg is practically surrendered by the Austro-German allies, and its fall or liberation held by the Russians is imminent, according to an Austrian official statement issued here today. Teuton troops are within eighteen miles of the city. The official statement follows:

"The pursuing allied troops have drained to Zolkiew, about eighteen miles north of Lemberg, and south of Rawa Ruska, which is the center of the Russian troops on this line are everywhere being attacked.

"Near Tarnawiec and Zolkiew the Russians are making a stand against the enemy.

"The troops of the army of General Count Bothmer have repulsed strong Russian attacks with the heaviest of losses to the Russians northwest of Gology, south of Zale Szarajki and on the Dessarabian frontier.

"The situation in the northwest is otherwise unchanged.

BEFORE LEMBERG FORTS.

A dispatch this afternoon from Berlin says:

"Austro-German forces are now pushing before the forts defending Lemberg upon the north. The German war office in a statement today officially announced that the Russians in Galicia have retreating east of Zolkiew, which is almost fifteen miles due north of Lemberg.

It is officially announced that the battle northwest of Lemberg proceeding Zolkiew lies on the Lemberg-Rawa-Ruska railway line and upon the Bug river.

The general opinion at Petrograd according to the latest dispatches from the Russian capital is that Lemberg will soon be abandoned to the Teutonic allies.

In official circles at Petrograd it is understood that Lemberg has not been used as a base of supplies for Russian forces and that its evacuation would not seem any military advantage to the Russians, because they have not attempted to hold the city.

While the Russian War Office admits that the Austro-German offensive continues in the region of Rawa Ruska, it is stated that the Austrians are not making any

TEUTONIC OFFENSIVE.

"On the left bank of the Vistula at dawn on 22nd June the Germans assumed the offensive in isolated sections on the front south of the Pilica and after a short artillery preparation repulsed, by hand-to-hand fighting, several hundreds of prisoners.

"The Austro-German offensive continues in the region of Rawa Ruska.

"On the night of the 20th our troops retired from the Dniester line on the Lemberg positions.

"On the Dniester the fighting of several days has attained large dimensions. Mikolajow and Halicz. They were driven back from the villages of Dobrowlany and Lesnica, suffering heavy losses.

"On the rest of the front in Galicia and Bukowina, although stubborn fighting continues in some sections, the Austrians have not succeeded in making progress anywhere."

Woman Causes Arrest of Noted English Poet

That Alfred Noyes, the famous English poet, was arrested after the conclusion of the Phi Beta Kappa exercises at Harvard yesterday, where he read the annual poem, became known today. The arrest was in a civil action.

Following his arrest Mr. Noyes was taken to the Harvard Union, where bonds of $500 were furnished by Edmund A. Whitman and Hollis H. Bailey of Cambridge.

The case is an action of contract, wherein a Mrs. Darnell of Williamstown, who conducts a lecture bureau, alleges she engaged Noyes to deliver a series of lectures, also to appear on portions of the proceeds. The action is for $1,000.

Noyes lectured in the Lowell Institute course in Boston in 1913 and 1914. Miss Darnell, who is head of the Musical and Lecture Guild of New England, says she secured the contract for him and has not received her commission.

Alexander John Hunter of Cambridge served the writ, which is returnable in Boston on July 6.

Noyes who has been at Princeton as professor of English for some time, was a leading candidate for poet laureate of England when Alfred Austin died.

HANGED IN EFFIGY FOR SAVING FRANK

By International News Service.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 22.—The entire Fifth Regiment of the Georgia National Guard was kept busy today checking the popular revolt against Governor John M. Slaton for his commutation to life imprisonment of the death sentence of Leo M. Frank, convicted as the slayer of little Mary Phagan.

Fear that the riotous demonstrations of last night would be repeated was entertained by the guard officers, who were prepared to enforce martial law in every quarter of this city.

From all over the State today came reports of violent scenes resulting from the Governor's action in commuting Frank's sentence.

At Marietta, twenty miles from here, in the county from which the family of the Phagan girl came, an effigy of Governor Slaton was hanged in a public street. A placard on the dummy read:

"John Slaton, Georgia's traitor Governor."

A mob late last night burned the effigy.

A similar scene was enacted at Woodstock.

At Newnan, an effigy of the Governor was set on fire and dragged through the streets of the city while a mob of shouting citizens followed in fifty automobiles.

At points near today, following last night's threatening scenes, when a crowd stood the governor's country home at bay, the governor's country

MOB MARCHES ON SLATON'S HOME

home on Peachtree road, six miles out, was driven off by the militiamen with fixed bayonets, the only section of the State under martial law was within a half-mile radius of the Slaton home. There the soldiers were encamped with loaded rifles prepared for quick action.

As soon as word reached Governor Slaton that the mob was approaching over the road made famous by Sherman on his march to the sea, the Executive ordered out the militia. More than 700 men and boys, loudly shouting that the Governor had committed treason, were gathered in front of the Executive's home when the first of the militiamen arrived at 11 o'clock.

DISPERSE THE MOB.

Obeying the command in charge with fixed bayonets, the soldiers dispersed the mob, and a small detail of troops cleared the neighborhood of scattered parties of the mob driving them in all directions.

While the militia scouters patrolled the grounds about Governor Slaton's house today the Governor remained indoors. With him were several of his close friends, all of whom armed and ready to repulse another mob should it appear again in the neighborhood.

In the streets of Atlanta today hundreds of plain clothes policemen and uniformed officers mingled with the crowds on the streets and with the mounted police cleared almost the principal streets, dispersed every kind of street gathering.

The policemen were under orders to keep every one moving and to make arrests in every instance where the order was not complied with at once. The local authorities were using their utmost to handle the situation in Atlanta without calling upon the State for further aid.

At least a thousand men and boys gathered in front of the jail made up on yellow dodgers scattered broadcast in the streets. The mob remained in the streets about City Hall.

Speeches, inflammatory in nature, were delivered at the jail. When a man, a policeman in plain clothes, on duty, was rebuked by his superior, Chief J. L. Beavers, for his conduct of the mob.

Beckham addressed himself to the chief and immediately grabbed by his superior officer, his badge ripped off and he himself roughly put into a patrol wagon passing. He is now under arrest.

One crowd stormed the Capitol. Speeches were made on the steps. They rushed the office of the Governor and jammed the executive chambers to overflowing. The Governor had gone. Those who knew Frank to Milledgeville appeared and told the crowd that Frank was no longer in Atlanta, and described the route he had taken. It was then that the mob filed out of the State House into the ground floor corridor, shouting

"To the Governor's House."

CALL SLATON "TRAITOR."

It was a six-mile walk. The crowd encouraged as it proceeded. Cries of "We want the traitor Governor!" echoed and re-echoed along the whole line of the mob.

Mounted police were thrown out in advance of the mob. Unable to hold them without bloodshed, they escorted the column, keeping it from checking progress toward the Governor's house as much as possible to delay matters and give the militia a chance to get there and take up a favorable position.

Meanwhile messages were sent to the Governor warning him to keep away from the mansion.

The mob was more and more "peeved," he declared, but I will know that I have done what should be done in the interest of the people of Georgia and the office I hold."

Before the arrival of the mob, the famous mansion of automobiles carrying persons eager to see the excitement, and the streets were filled with people. The police had great difficulty in keeping them refugees from the path of the oncoming mob. When they were ordered to move by the officers armed with shotguns and clubs, the colonels simply replied "Shoot!"

WALTHAM GIRL IN RIVER A SUICIDE

Lehtinen and others at the girl's boarding house as first-hand evidence of the spirit of general discouragement and depression.

A quantity of poison was found in the clothing of the prisoner, according to Associate Medical Examiner Thomas M. Gallacher, who performed a three-hour autopsy at the undertaking rooms of George A. Clark in Waltham.

Dr. Gallagher said:

Death undoubtedly was due to suicide by drowning, but the girl was more dead than alive at the time she entered the water, due to the effect of the poison. Just what the nature of the poison is I cannot state now.

The disfigured face was the result of turtle bites. I made a most thorough examination, three hours, one of the longest ever made in this district.

The death of the girl and the suicide note came as great shocks to the Lehtinen household because Miss Lehtinen had seemed cheerful up to the time she left her boarding house Sunday evening.

She was twenty-six years old and came to this country from Finland five years ago. She had lived three years in Waltham and boarded for two years with the Lehtinens.

She worked as a weaver in the Waltham plant of the Boston Manufacturing Company. She was considered a good worker. She left home from 7:30 to the morning until 7 o'clock at night, with an hour noontime.

RECEIVED $8 SALARY.

Out of her $8 pay envelope Ida gave Mrs. Lehtinen $1.25 a week for her room. For this she received a good-sized room on the second floor.

The girl "ate around," as they say, that is, she bought her meals at restaurants. Then she had her laundry to pay, her clothing to buy and what ever pleasures she could get on the balance—if there was any balance.

When the body was found there were 63 cents in the purse in a coat pocket.

The police reported finding a ring bearing a small diamond on the girl's engagement finger. The landlady declared today, however, that she never knew Ida to accept any attentions from young men, although she was a comely girl.

The landlady was puzzled about the ring and suggested that Ida must have bought it merely as a ring and have put it on the third finger of her left hand without knowing the romantic significance of that position.

IN COUNTRY FIVE YEARS.

But the girl had been in this country five years and it is hardly likely she would have worn the ring of the will five minutes before the other girls would have spied it and asked all about her love affair.

Ida kept very regular habits, dividing her time chiefly between the mill and her boarding house. She took pride in her room and her own appearance. She had several dresses, neatly hung on wire hangers, in her closet. The walls bore good cheer which the girl had pinned here and there. Several showed home scenes in Finland.

On a table near where the note was found were two volumes of Tolstoy, which the girl presumably had been reading. That she was interested in the works of the great Slav novelist was regarded as unusual by others in the household.

Graduates at Winchester in Shakespeare

Departing from the usual program of set speeches and prize declamations, the graduation exercises of Winchester High School, in Town Hall tonight, will be a costume portrayal of Shakespeare's works, set to the music of famous composers.

Principal E. C. Wilson decided that every one of the twenty-one boy and thirty girl graduates should share in the active honors of graduation, although special parts should be assigned to the chief honor pupils. Miss Virginia Appleton Mosman will read an essay, a brief sketch of Shakespearean dramas, as a prologue to the entertainment.

The graduates will then give scenes from "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Twelfth Night" and "A Winter's Tale."

Accompaniments will be sung by the girls' glee club or played by the works of Schubert, Sargent, Arne and Wallace.

GENERAL ANGELES' FAMILY IN BOSTON

The AMERICAN today found the family of General Felipe Angeles, the artillery expert, to whom Villa gives credit for many victories in his battles in Mexico, staying in Boston. Reports from Washington are that General Angeles is on his way to this city to join his family. Until today no one knew the whereabouts of Mrs. Angeles and her daughter, Isabelle, who fled Mexico two years ago.

Mother and daughter, who are at No. 116 Newbury street, expect General Angeles to arrive in Boston in a few days. Concerning reports that he had broken with Villa or that he was coming to this country to confer with Mexican exiles upon the formation of a coalition government to restore order in Mexico, Mrs. Angeles said:

"My husband never talks politics to me or writes to me about his campaigns. I know, though, he would sacrifice any personal ambition for the sake of harmony in Mexico.

"I have no idea why he broke relations with Carranza, when he was the Constitutionalist Secretary of War. Nor do I know about his reported break with Villa. I am sure my husband would support any reasonable plan for peace. Mexico is tired of this fighting."

"My daughter and I left Mexico when Huerta stepped into power. We were in Europe for a year. Boston people have been very kind to us during our stay here."

CARMEN MAY NOT ACCEPT AWARD

letter, chairman of the board of three arbitrators, and the "neutral" member of the board.

President P. F. Sullivan, head of the road, voiced dissatisfaction on the part of the company also. He announced that fares on the 951 miles of street railway operated by the Bay State would be raised on account of the increase in wages and the cut in hours.

On the part of the stockholders dissatisfaction is as keen as it is with the employes. They dislike the idea of jumping fares but little less than they dislike an increase in wages. President Sullivan's announcement was:

The award means that if the investors of the Bay State Company shall receive a reasonable return on the investment, the price of transportation must be increased. The Bay State Company has postponed as long as possible an increase in rates; it will now get ready to increase such rates.

In financial circles the award was considered a victory for the company. The present award is estimated to cost the company less than $200,000 for the two years ending October 1, 1916, as compared with the estimated cost to the company of $1,183,000 per year had the demands of the carmen been granted.

REDUCE THOSE DANGEROUS VARICOSE VEINS

Physicians are prescribing and hospitals are using a new and harmless yet very powerful remedy that not only causes enlarged or varicose veins and bunches to become normal, but also reduces some enlarged glands, varicocele and veins.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that a few drops only are required for treatment, if this wonderful discovery does not produce results you can have the price refunded.

It is not wise for anyone to allow unsightly veins to keep on enlarging. Often they become very painful and cause untold suffering and humiliation. Get the Emerald Oil at once and proceed to get rid of these disfigurements. Booklet mailed in plain wrapper on request. Write Moone Chemical Co., Rochester, N. Y.

VIENNA CLAIMS ITALIANS ARE DRIVEN BACK

By STEVEN BURNETT,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

VIENNA, June 22.—Slight victories over the Italians have been won by the Austrian troops, according to an official statement issued by the War Office here today.

Three attacks by Italians have been repulsed and Austrian torpedo boats have successfully bombarded several coast cities and town, including Grindis, according to the statement, which follows:

"Our brave troops have repulsed two attacks near Preva. Here an Italian officer, with a white flag and a bugler, appeared before our front, but as they were without written authority both were taken prisoners.

"In the district northwest of Kerm, east of Karfreit, the enemy was repulsed from a position on the ridge in this fighting a detachment of the Dobreczin Honved especially distinguished themselves.

"Our heavy artillery has successfully interfered with the mountain fighting on the Carinthian frontier. An attack by the enemy in the district east of Plocken, as usual, was unsuccessful.

"On the Tyrolean frontier district there have been no important events. The fire of the heavy Italian artillery against our fortifications has been unsuccessful.

"On April 19 a torpedo boat successfully bombarded tank and harbor buildings at Monopli. The railway station at Bari and Brindisi have been damaged by the bombardment of our naval planes."

ITALIANS REPORT CONTINUED GAINS ON LEFT OF THE ISONZO

By BRIXTON D'ALLAIRE,
Special Correspondent International News Service.

ROME, June 22.—Repeated night attacks by the Austrians to recapture positions taken by the Italians on the left bank of the Isonzo River were repulsed, according to an official statement issued by the War Office today. In the Monte Nero zone of operations, the Italians continue to gain despite the bad weather and the heavy resistance made by the Austrians.

The official statement follows:

"On the Tyrol and Trent frontiers there has been nothing of importance excepting reconnaissance through the San Pellegrino valley, where we occupied Monta Pasco.

"In the upper Cordevo valley we discovered at various points strong cemented Austrian trenches carefully concealed.

"On the Carnic frontier the continued fire upon Plezzo fortress of Malborghette was somewhat hindered by foggy weather.

"On the night of June 21 fresh Austrian attacks upon Freikopel were repulsed. In the Monte Nero zone the operations begun on June 18 and June 20 were carried to the most successful conclusion, notwithstanding the difficulties of the ground and the bad weather. The enemy, strongly supported by artillery, made heavy resistance.

"Along the Isonzo River front frequent night alarms from the enemy's trenches accompanied by rifle and artillery fire have been noticed. We did not respond to these attacks.

"The Austrians have attempted to recapture our positions on the left bank of the Isonzo River by repeated night attacks seeking to drive us back to the right bank, but they were always repulsed."

THE SPENDTHRIFT NOW AT MAJESTIC

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Edmund Breese interested and excited a large audience at the Majestic last night in "The Spendthrift," a play by Porter Emerson Browne, which has been seen in New York, and which deals with extravagant wives. He was admirably supported by the Lonergan players, and the audience there went almost as smoothly as it if were not a first production by a stock company.

Porter Emerson Brown is a clever young man, whose plays all contain splendid material, but which usually unfold as though he were in such a hurry to get them off his mind that he let his results that he didn't take time to polish them off.

"The Spendthrift" is that kind of play. The first three acts are full of strong scenes and strong situations, ending really to say. "This is a good play." Mr. Brown comes along with the last act, which is as maudlin and as wishy-washy and as spiritless as the final scenes of one of the old fashioned melodramas.

Miss Amy Ricard shared honors with Mr. Breese last night. As the silly, extravagant wife, whose caprices brought her husband to ruin, and whose folly in marrying a large sum from a man about town caused the catastrophe of the play, she was especially engaging qualities.

Breese plays the too food husband powerfully and convincingly, but in exactly the same fashion he used as the abused husband in "Today," in which he was seen here last Winter, which does not flatter his versatility.

Winifred Wellington and Eddie Phelan did well in small parts and Hester Lodge was unusually agreeable as the husband's friend. Anna Laing, as Aunt Gretchen, a regular Hetty Green, has a fine chance for character which she doesn't improve. John Meehan was effective in a few minutes as the clubman who lent the extravagant lady a large bundle of legal tender.

Mr. Breese will be seen next week in "Modern Mind."

Globe Theatre.

An all-star vaudeville show was seen at the Globe Theatre yesterday, headlining the big program was Maurice Samuels & Co., in a comedy drama playlet entitled, "At Pitts burg." His offering was well received by the large audiences. Others on the bill were Ralph Edwards in a repertoire of new songs, La Velde Trio, in a comedy acrobatic novelty, which pleased. The Fleming & Co. introduced a new musical novelty. The Leo Feist's Warblers rendered their latest song hits. The extra added feature was Charlie Chaplin in his latest comedy photo play entitled "Work." The second episode of the "Romance of Elaine" was also shown.

Park Theatre.

Mary Pickford and the widely famous young comedian, John Barrymore, were seen upon the screen at the Park Theatre yesterday.

Miss Pickford is being starred in the great Paramount picture "Behind the Scenes," an absorbing dramatization by the Famous Players Film Company, with Margaret Mayo's famous play of theatrical life. "Little Mary" appears especially charming in the part of the star, who is the heroine of the play. John Barrymore is being introduced this week in the latest Famous Players-Paramount picture. A splendid photoplay adaptation of Richard Harding Davis' well known legitimate stage success, "The Dictator."

Tremont Theatre.

The 125th performance of "The Birth of a Nation" will take place at the Tremont Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening, there will be changes in both matinee and night representations. The Bunker Hill Day and Saturday performances will be the largest ever seen at this cool and well ventilated playhouse. Large advance sale is on hand for the next few weeks, including the double holiday bill for Monday and July 5. Mr. Griffith's historical spectacle is the only regular theatrical attraction booked for the summer season.

St. James Theatre.

Heading the all-star program at the St. James Theatre was Thomas J. Ryan and his players in a comedy sketch entitled "Mag Haggerty's Father." Mr. Ryan kept the house laughing and applauding. Others on the bill were Clarence Wilbur in a monologistic Nation Brow in a Japanese novelty, Leonard & Willard, in a comedy playlet, Madie Lang, in a repertoire of songs, and Long Mcgarry with their singing offering. The Leo Feist's singers rendered their latest song hits. The extra added feature was Charlie Chaplin in his latest comedy photo play entitled "Work." The second episode of the "Romance of Elaine" was also shown.

Scollay Square Theatre.

The popularity of Charlie Chaplin was evidently manifested yesterday when he appeared in the two reel photo play feature, "Work," at the Scollay Square Theatre.

The vaudeville bill was a most worthy one, including Alice Bellamo Neval, in a repertoire of songs, singing dancing and contortion; Girls of the North and South musical offering; Bernard and Scully, in a travesty of the Subway Crew" in song and talk.

Pemberton Inn.

Pemberton Inn for beginning this season will open a dining room with motorists and excursionists. # FAIRBANKS THE STAR AT KEITH'S

Douglas Fairbanks brought his vaudeville at Keith's yesterday afternoon, after a long absence, and acted in "The Show Shop," and hurled himself to success in a rollicking sketch, "A Regular Business Man." He was assisted by Miss Patricia Collinge, who is very able and winsome. The sketch is very much "Fairbanks," action and action.

Fairbanks plays the part of a good natured life loving lawyer, who is spurred into action by his stenographer who is also his fiance. He makes one thousand dollars in one hour after taking nothing for months, just to show that he is "A Regular Business Man." His personality is just as real and likeable as ever. It is one good one after the other.

Ernest R. Ball, who has written popular songs in a song writer with a voice and a great deal of which he can play. His wrote "Mother Mac Cree" which John McCormack is singing this year for, he also wrote "Love Me and the World is Mine."

Prince Lai Mon Kim is a fetching looking Chinaman who has a fine tenor voice and he sings some good songs. The novelty of the act and the pleasing appearance of the young singer made a big hit.

Pistka and Nadin are a pantomime clown and an acrobat. The clown is really an artistic fusion of the Farber Girls—very modern young women, both—are back again with some new songs and some "cut up lims," by the blonde sister.

For acrobats these are the Baker Sisters. The Nine White Hussars make band music and sing some. Harry H. Richards and Bessie Kyle do some chatter and a song or two and the Cycling Brunettes—men—exhibit.

Boston Theatre.

Fighting for home, thrilling and interestingly interesting five-part picture play of American college life and revolution in South America, with Orrin Johnson in the title role, supported by Olive Wyndham and an all-star cast, is the star feature at the Boston Theatre this week.

This picture stirred two big audiences yesterday to enthusiasm with its wonderful battle scenes and charming love story. As the young American who becomes a soldier of fortune in South America, with Dorothy Bernard as president of the country after many stirring adventures in the tropics, Mr. Johnson has a great role, and Miss Wyndham is delightful as Dulcinia, the Spanish senorita with a mind to be fully loyal.

The big comedy features of the bill are supplied by Charlie Chaplin in his new Essanay-Chaplin comedy in two parts, "Work," Caroline H. Nichols and her Padelets, offering a lovely new and popular repertoire of musical selections.

CRAIG PLAYERS APPEAR IN COMEDY

"Years of Discretion," by Frederick and Fanny Locke Hatton, an old fashioned comedy with a modern setting, began a week's run at the Castle Square Theatre yesterday. The play is a moral lesson with a happy ending.

It teaches the psychological idea that a craving of age to return to the period of youth is unhealthy and abnormal and can bring no lasting happiness. Every period of life has its joys even old age.

The story of the play deals with, Mrs. Farrell Howard, a widow of forty-eight, who realized she was getting old and conscious that the reverence and respect which had been given her by her husband and only son were cold, monotonous substitutes for the love and passion she had missed, she determined to have a new taste of life.

She goes to New York City to live with a friend and throws off twenty years of her life and with a semblance of youthful beauty brings three men to her feet and has all the thrills that she craved for. In the midst of these complications, that threaten to bring more than thrills, her heart speaks through her emotions and brings an offer of marriage from the man she loves.

The play called for the best abilities of all the players and each one responded in the fullest sense of the word.

SIEGEL BEGINS WORK AS CONVICT

By International News Service.

ROCHESTER, June 22.—After a breakfast of mush, coffee and molasses, Harry Siegel, once a millionaire and peer of New York's mercantile barons, early today went to work as a convict.

Little, broken, old, and alone, save for five reporters, to whom he bade a wistful farewell, Siegel was locked up in Monroe County's ancient jail to serve a ten-month sentence for violating the State banking laws.

Not until he arrived in the warden's office did he break. He heard Supreme Court Justice Clark, in Geneseo, order that he be taken to jail, and smiled. He trudged jauntily beside the sheriff of Livingston County to the sheriff's office with a laugh and a sprightly air of self-esteem.

KAISER'S 'CAREER OF MURDER' ASSAILED IN HARVARD ORATION

Watson McL. Washburn of New York cast neutrality to the winds in his Harvard class day oration in Sanders Theatre today, assailed the Kaiser and "his mad career of murder, regardless of all the laws of nations and humanity."

Assembled seniors, alumni and guests were amazed to hear him launch out at "the German battering ram which is making international law and justice totter" and express the hope the Kaiser "would return to the paths of reason."

In a setting traditional for its spirit of peace and calm, Washburn sounded a martial note when he rose to speak on "America and the Great War." Passing from an attack on kultur and deploring the plight of Belgium and Louvain, he continued:

CONTEMPT FOR PEACE.

Three months ago began a series of attacks on American ships and American lives. We attribute it to chance, or, at worst, to the excessive zeal of some stray submarine commander. In the light of subsequent events, these exploits wear a darker hue. The country was suddenly housed from its dream of security by the Lusitania outrage.

What can be Germany's motive? Does she think her unlawful submarine warfare is worth more than our neutrality? If so, we know what to expect.

The German war-lords let no idle scruples stand in the way of success. With them, the end justifies the means—even such means as the murder of offenders and non-combatants. They will no more refrain from killing our citizens because it is wrong than they refrained from violating Belgium for the same reason.

Other men might see the folly of adding the last great neutral nation to the ever-widening circle of their foes. But the Prussian rulers have been seized with a kind of frenzy, which hurries them on to fulfil their fate.

Perhaps they mistake our patience for cowardice. Governed by a military caste, they naturally despise the peaceful. Because they expect us to sell the lives of our countrymen for gold. They think we are for peace at any price, even at the price of honor. They are wrong.

UPHOLD CIVILIZATION.

Ours is not merely a selfish interest. We uphold the cause of civilization. The fabric of international law and justice, reared through the centuries with painful toil, totters beneath the blows of the German battering ram.

Germany claims the right to override the laws whenever it suits her purpose. If this claim is suffered to pass unchallenged, international law is dead, and anarchy reigns. Who is better fitted to challenge it than the United States?

We have done our best to bring home to the Kaiser the enormities of our intentions. With full knowledge of the facts, he must now make his decision. We have spoken. We can do nothing now but wait. In the earnest hope that he will realize the call of reason.

But what if he does not? What if he rejects our just demands? What if he continues his mad career of murder, regardless of all the laws of nations and humanity?

If he thinks might the only right, and will listen to no argument but that of force, then, though with deep grief, we must rise force against him; we must give him our answer through the cannon's mouth.

Lionel de Jersey Harvard of London, by whose generosity the friend of Harvard's founders, sounded a martial note in his class poem. Lionel Harvard, who is to graduate in the English forces at once, wrote, in part:

LIONEL HARVARD'S POEM.

A call to arms rings out today
Far fairer than of myth
The arms of the strong man girt with truth
To guard God's commonweal.

Follow the star of freedom flaming
Ever a beacon to your feet.
Pursuing, shielding, redressing
Your Vedic be-all and end-all.

But fifty years are long.
From those wry balls in pitch an age
And weighing the right and wrong, they came,
Clan against clan, nation against nation.

To save the basket pot, perhaps.
Today, to protect your soils in peace.
But the spirit that moved them then swerves
Not with a deed done in the light.

The Class Ode, composed by Devereux C. Josephs of Newport, was next sung. Norris L. Tibbetts, the chairman, acting as toastmaster.

Professor George H. Palmer offered prayer and spoke briefly. The seniors entered the theatre led by Marshal Trumbull of Salem, first marshal, and Frederick A. Brady of Boston, chairman of the class day committee.

Harvard atmosphere today is alive with pretty girls clad in the fluffy creations of summer. Delegations from the Back Bay and all the big cities of the East throng the yard for short and long stays. Big spreads to follow during the day and evening, with the most prominent one held in Beck Hall, the Hasty Pudding Club house. Wadsworth house and Holworthy Hall.

This afternoon all the classes in Cambridge for reunions join in the general march to the Stadium, where the Ivy Oration is given by David R. Hagerman of Boston and for the yearly confetti battle.

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bother
(Modes of Today)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

"THE GODDESS"

By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS and CHARLES W. GODDARD

By Gouverneur Morris and Charles W. Goddard

Copyright, 1913, by the New Cosmos.

UNFORTUNATELY it had been decreed by an eternal providence that some women shall be shaped like May poles and others like fire hydrants, and that both of these be clothed in the same fashion. Why, oh why, did not the gods who made the Greeks a thing of beauty? To be tolerable in Greek dress a woman must have a noble neck. To look beautiful in it she must also be beautiful.

Most of the women, seeing how the men had crowded about her, copied Celestia and made themselves ridiculous; others carried it off rather well, and still others looked stunning. This may be said of every fashion that has ever inflicted itself upon the world, and is a truth which, if better realized by woman in general, would be of immense financial service to men in particular.

Among the men, when she said that she came from heaven, among the unfortunate and the despairing, Celestia was taken literally by so many that it staggers belief. We have only to remember that less gifted prophets have succeeded in imposing their divinity on multitudes. Almost Celestia there was nothing that could take. She was goodness and sincerity personified.

Among the more sophisticated, the statement of her origin was taken as a figure of speech, not by all, of course, but by a vast majority. "Anything or any one that is really good for us may be said to have been sent by heaven," these explained. "She doesn't, of course, mean to imply that she stepped into a fiery eight-cylinder limousine that was waiting for her at heaven's gate and came down through space in defiance of all speed laws."

But, anyway, it does n't matter, does it, inspired. That's the main thing. Did any one ever see such eyes or hear such a voice? It will be interesting to see what she will do when she has to go against the politician," etc., etc.

To pave the way for their ultimate coup d'état it was part of the Hitmeratte's plan to allay some of that bitterness which so many of the poor entertain for an many of the rich. So Professor Stilliter, making use of those means which we have so often explained, put it into Celestia's head to go about a good deal among fashionable people.

To the simple-minded, newspaper-read Douglas family it was all but inconceivable that there should be any such qualities as kindness, simplicity and virtue (except perhaps about the servants) in a Fifth avenue mansion. And they were among Celestia's first converts to a contrary opinion.

"And where are you going to-night, my dear?" asked Mrs. Douglas. "And where did you get such a wonderful cloak. And you've done your hair differently."

Mrs. Douglas and her husband, sitting side by side (they had been holding hands), gazed at Celestia in astonishment. Nellie, who had entered the room just behind Celestia, was flushed with excitement and mystery.

"My dears," said Celestia, "it's a very long story. But first of all you must know that I am going to a ball. And Freddie is going with me."

"Just wait till you see Freddie," exclaimed the Ferret's sister. "You should have observed Celestia fixing his tie," and Celestia smiled at the recollection.

But old Mr. Douglas looked troubled and anxious.

The Light That Defies the Storm

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

NO great victory has ever been won without unfaltering determination. The determination that not only determining and stubborness to enable them to hold their position. But to take the offensive and to storm and overthrow needs the white heat of supreme enthusiasm.

The force of enthusiasm, hope and enthusiasm—optimism—has saved many a lost cause. Persons often shrink away before its touch of bright-eyed desire to go on and doing. How many of us embrace quickly about each new opportunity that touches our horizon? But the cold winds of waiting may chill our first ardor and the frost of no results may even destroy it. But it is only counterfeit enthusiasm that so easily perishes. The genuine feeling endures in the face of hardship and slow accomplishment and compels by force of restful determination to reach its goal.

Youth, in its first flush of proud consciousness, is likely to think it can conquer the world. BUT THE ESTABLISHED MAN MUST HAVE A WHOLE LIFE'S STRENGTH TO THRUST BACK THE DISCOURAGEMENTS AND DISAPPOINTMENTS AND DISCOMFITURES THAT BESET HIM ALL.

Cultivate the enthusiasm that endures. It will make a dull world bright and will make you, with a cheerful attitude in which hopefulness will be built the courage to endure disappointments in the light of the belief that all will be well. Believe in luck if you must, but if you are keen on the scent of what you are hunting, be lucky.

The abuse that lightens, makes and brightens disappointments has its effect on your physical being.

You are not jaded and tired with the heaviness of one who feels that no courage nor determination can help him. But instead you write each day with the eager joy of one who has faith in his own ability to achieve. Every muscle will and spirit all your forces work together to this end and one before retiring at night

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE, SAFE AND RELIABLE WAY.

People who are overburdened with superfluous fat know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that every stout person is subject to.

If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily subjecting your vital organs and are carrying around with you a constant reminder of your ugly figure.

There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat, if you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, a combination diet or tiresome exercising cannot be made to do as much as often sit, breathe deeply and get from your good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Bringing Up Mother

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

Copyright, 1913, by the Cosmos.

"I WONDER if, after I was gone, I could so mother me as to daughter mine, do you?" mused my friend. She looked amused, and I was sorry for her even before I understood just what was troubling her.

"What do you mean by 'training'?" I asked.

"Oh, telling me how I ought to look or behave, suggesting that I am in danger of becoming old fashioned or fast, setting me right in general," she explained.

"Does Mary do all these things to you?" I asked. "She seems devoted to you."

"She is devoted to me," Mary's mother hastened to assure me. "But she does correct me and tell me of my mistakes. I suppose with you that it is good for us mothers to have our daughters do it."

It is one of the mysteries of life that so few of the things that are "good for us" are agreeable—from the point of view of the doer, too—while so many delightful things are "bad for us." Take your tough out of your mouth" to the time when that child, grown to young womanhood, suggests that the best mother can do for her heart is to "be jolly old fashioned."

I say advisedly "crush to young womanhood," for men differ from daughters. If a father has perhaps daughter, he is apt to treat her unfairly and let him alone. In fact they do not care enough about her opinions to meddle with her behavior by criticising that she does. Things he does are not strictly and formally "right," but his training is not along the lines that make him notice petty failings and to be grieved by them.

He takes it for granted that son will call his mother certified to limit manners. A deserted son-in-law is. There are several reasons for this—better, he feels that a daughter's little about "the latest thing" in woman's dress, and that her opinions is old fashioned.

In the second place, if he has been properly trained, he feels that he feels for her a chivalric that exists a mouthful of his tolerant daughter his appearance and manners. She is always "dear little Mother" to him—dearer, perhaps, for certain "quaint ways that would annoy his sister. They are not inherent with his idea of what his mother ought to be.

She is "that Mother," that's all. Suppose the dear creature does wear a cap, or clothes other women are wearing short skirts? They are her traits, the son asserts, and if she feels more comfortable when her dainty feet are hidden in folds of drapery whose bagginess is at its e glad his mother does not look like a fashion plate.

At least all this is what he would say if his attention were drawn to her oddities of attire. If a man or boy not called to his notice he probably would not know of their existence.

In the third place, the difference in sex prevents feminine failings "getting on his nerves," as they might on the nerves of a woman or girl.

So, after all, it is the daughter who is guilty of the "training" to which the parent objects.

"I shall stop telling mother when her hat is crooked," a young girl declared. "She has a way of tossing her head when animated in conversation, and though she may start out with her hat in its proper place—and pinned there, too—by the time she has been chatting for a half hour it is over one ear. Yet when I say to her softly and gently, 'Mother, straighten your bonnet, dear,' she flushes and is offended.

"To-day she observed that it was strange that I was the only person who ever complained of her appearance. I had just called her attention to the fact that she had spilled something on her lace jabot, leaving a stain there.

"I am sorry my looks mortify you," she said stiffly. "Yet you are the only person who ever complains of my appearance."

"I did not say to her—what is true—that nobody else loves her so dearly nobody else is so solicitous to have others see her at her best. It actually hurts me when I think that anyone to whom she is talking may look at her critically and wonder why Mrs. G. will wear her hat over one ear or be surprised to see such a charming woman so untidy about her dress. I can imagine such a person thinking, 'Why, she has on a spotty neck-tie.' Yet, much as I love mother, I must allow her to go about just as she happens to be and keep silent. What she says to me, 'Dear, that collar you have on is soiled,' I am grateful to her.

"But," I ventured lamely, "she has always been in the habit of correcting your faults of manner and of dress."

"And so she has—but it hers—as she loves me," was the uncontradictable reply. "Yet she will not see that it is love for her and pride in her her attire."

What could I say? I knew she spoke the truth.

"I am very much vexed with my daughter," a mother told me, "because she allowed me to repeat to a caller last night the very same story which I had told him at length upon the occasion of his last visit to us. It was not until I had finished the tale and noticed his forced laugh that I recalled having regaled him with the same anecdote last week."

"Why did you not check your mother when she began the story?" I asked the daughter when I was alone with her.

The girl at twenty essayed at me with a sore smile.

"And suppose I had said so gently: 'Mother, dear, you told Mr. Smith that tale before,' do you know what she would have done," she asked. "No? Well, she would have drawn herself up and said, 'I beg your pardon?' in a manner that would have sent a chill my bones. I would rather hear little same story to the same dear mother one dozen times than get in return by reminding her that she was going so."

"But you are some-what right. I know that some daughters are unfeeling and impatient, but others do mean well, and the girl above quoted suggests, one does want one's beloved to appear at her best. When I see how uncomfortable well-meaning daughters make their mothers, I am glad I have only sons." I heard one woman exclaim.

Which is a sentiment that many a mother of daughters arouses in the breast of many a mother of sons.

JUST around the corner, what may not befall!
Just around the corner all things at all!
So down the path of gloomy years
Set to a viola of our tears,
Where hopes are lost and dreams are fears,
We wait and sigh one—from night to dawn—
Since just around the corner goes
Thing may wait;
Just around the corner may to something Fate.

Just around the corner dressing may
Just around the corner for that watch for you,
An unguessed happiness may wait,
Perchance love lurks a gift from Fate—

And so, lured on till life is late,
Our way we grope—lost on to Hope.
Since just around the corner may be rest from strife—
"Just around the corner"—history of life!

Did You Buy?

"Here you are, gents," shouted the street fakir, "the greatest invention of the age."

And as the crowd gathered around him he went on:

"A magnetized keyhole plate for front doors. It will attract an ordinary steel key from a distance of three feet. All you have to do is to take out your key and hang onto it."

This Liquid Attacks Hair Under the Skin

To gain control of coarse, bristly growths which have been caused by the unwise use of pastes, rub-on preparations and other things which merely remove hair from the surface of the skin, you must use De Miracle, the original liquid hair remover. Art de Miracle says: De Miracle is "the best method." Only publications of the highest character are quoted by us. Beware of so-called hair removers which are supposedly recommended through secret quotations from so-called magazines which do not exist.—Advertisement.

Zoe---The Story of a Great Love

(Copyright, Associated Newspapers, Ltd., for all rights in U. S. A. held by International News Service.)

By CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN.

SHORTLY after 2 o'clock a reply came from Mrs. Melhuish. It was a long and rambling telegram and plainly revealed the old lady's state of alarm.

"No; Diana is not here. Have not heard from her since Wednesday week. What is the matter? Do wire me at once. Mamie alone cannot understand what you mean. I hope nothing is the matter. Come down at once and tell me, or shall I return to town? An feeling very poorly, but will come at once if necessary. I feel so alarmed. What can it all mean?—Melhuish."

"That settles it," he said. "Now, what in the name of all that's wonderful am I to do?"

Again he called in the maid.

"Are you sure?" he asked.

"I am very sure."

He was making a brave fight with his nerves; and, even then, he would not have admitted to himself that he was really anything more than mildly puzzled. But, as a matter of fact, a terrible fear was taking possession of him.

He sent wires to the Laurels, to every one with whom, so far as he knew, Diana had any connection. He made a minute search of her rooms, he submitted Berenger and Collier and several hotel servants to rigid cross-examination, which, however, elicited nothing fresh.

"I really think you ought to inform the police," said Mr. Coleman, Brooke's secretary. "After all it can do no harm, and there need be no publicity."

"But, my dear man," exclaimed Brooke irritably, "it is absurd. She must be all right; there must be some natural explanation, and yet—and yet—"

"Put the matter before the police at once, sir. That's my advice," said Coleman, sticking to his guns. He knew his master well enough to know that he never would give in and that he regarded alarm of any sort—nervousness or apprehension—as a sign of weakness of mind, to be discouraged as a dangerous disease. "At least, they could make inquiries at the hospitals," he added tentatively.

"Confound you!" thundered Brooke. "Don't dare to suggest that anything of that sort has happened to her, sir. Heaven, I'll—I'll—I beg your pardon, Coleman; I hardly know what I am saying.

To Have Perfect Skin Throughout the Summer

Those days the fine pore seems more and more distinct. Every hot day the pores become more enlarged and the skin more coarse. Then comes the accumulation of the dirt in the pores, which makes the skin look as if it were covered with a thin layer of dirt. Ordinary cosmetics only accentuate matters by adding more material to clog the pores. Dissolve a cake of Cuticura Soap in a little hot water, and with the tips of the fingers lather the face, using a little more water if necessary. Rinse off the soap and lather, and repeat the process, finishing with a final rinse of clear, hot water. Dry carefully, and apply a little Cuticura Ointment to the face, neck and hands. This will prevent chapping and roughness. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. book. Address: Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston.—Advertisement.

"Then leave the matter to me, sir," said Coleman. "I am sure it is the proper course, and you would regret it—if it were, too late."

Brooke sank into a chair and covered his face with his hands. He could hold out no longer.

"Do what you will," he said faintly. "Oh, God, help me! If anything has happened to her—if—Oh, but nothing could have happened, could it, Coleman? Speak, we'll, and say nothing could have happened, man?"

"I should not think so," said Coleman quietly. "Any moment her husband may turn up safe and sound."

"Yes, yes; of course," said Brooke eagerly. "Any moment she may turn up safe and sound, as you say, Coleman, and we shall all be laughing at our alarm, shan't we?"

The strong man of iron nerves had become as a frightened child—nervous, trusting, almost foolish.

"Shall I send round for Mr. Crawley, sir?" suggested Coleman.

"Crawley?" Brooke raised his head and frowned. "No, no; I don't want to see Crawley now! No, no!"

In a flash the memory of the evening that had been a party to came back to him. No, he could not see Crawley now—not, at any rate, until he knew that Di was safe. And all last night he had been in ignorance. Thinking of other things, doing other things. He shuddered. Was this to be his punishment? Again he covered his face with his hands and groaned aloud.

Coleman left him. He knew what was the right thing to do. He jumped into a taxi and drove to Scotland Yard.

Coleman returned half an hour afterwards, accompanied by a little man who looked like a solicitor's clerk—little, thin, wiry, clean-shaven man, with rather protruding eyes and bad teeth; not at all a pleasant looking little man.

His name was Paton—Lewis Paton, of the Criminal Investigation Department. Coleman effected an introduction between Mr. Paton and Lord Godfrey in the latter's private room at the hotel, and briefly explained that he had laid the main facts before that gentleman, who had been authorized to place the services of his department at Sir Godfrey's disposal.

Brooke rose to his feet and shook hands with the detective.

"Now, Mr. Paton," he said, "I am sure you will do your best to find my wife. Tell me what you require to know, and I will answer your questions."

"I think I had better leave you together," Coleman concluded.

The little man nodded approval and Brooke turned to Coleman.

"All right," he said. "You can leave us alone for a few minutes, but don't be far away. I shall want you later."

"Very good," said Coleman, retiring.

As a matter of fact he was only too glad to be out of the business. No man is sorry to escape association with the police.

"Will you have something to drink, Mr. Paton?" asked Sir Godfrey when the door had closed. "A cigar—or?——"

"No, thanks, sir," replied Mr. Paton; and the way he said "sir" was by no means servile. "I think we had better get to business at once. I am extremely sorry to hear of this strange disappearance of her ladyship's, but I may assure you that, so far as I see, there is nothing to be unduly alarmed at. There are a thousand reasonable explanations. I say this because I can see you are exceedingly worried."

THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—"I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would go to sleep in the day and my face would draw, and I could not speak, nor sleep for any good, had no appetite, and every-one thought I would not live. Some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I cannot say too much in recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefitted by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other woman from suffering."—Mrs. Martha Seavey, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been published. For long-continued use the medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

For over thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacement, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

DARTMOUTH GRAD KILLED IN AUTO

HANOVER, N. H., June 22—William Healey, Dartmouth 12, of Lynn, Mass., former Dartmouth pitcher, was killed in an automobile accident here. R. L. Parks of No. 83 Dart street, Springfield, Mass., and Dean R. Demerritt of No. 81 Burgess street, Manchester, N. H., both classmates of Healey, were badly injured. Philip Tracher, proprietor of a Hanover grill room, who owned and operated the machine, is under arrest.

The tragedy occurred on the road between Lebanon and West Lebanon. The machine, which is said to have been traveling at a high rate of speed, had just emerged from the covered wooden bridge which crosses the river at that point, onto a section of the boulevard which is being repaired.

Dunkirk Again Bombarded by the Germans

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, June 22.—Throwing shells for a distance of more than twenty miles, the Germans have again bombarded Dunkirk. Fourteen shells fell upon the city, killing several persons. The bombardment occurred at night. The Germans are now using poisonous gases along the northern end of the battle line in France.

Great quantities of asphyxiating fumes were released south of Arras, around Quennevieres farm, where hard fighting has been in progress for two weeks.

In Alsace the French have gained further ground in the valley of the Fecht River, advancing both north and south of Metzeral.

GERMANS WITHDRAW FROM WEST BANK OF THE FECHT RIVER

By International News Service.

BERLIN, June 22—The War Office today announces that attacks by the Franco-Belgian forces against three hamlets northwest of Dixmude, Belgium, were repulsed. The French have renewed their attacks against the Germans near Neuville St. Vaast, north of Arras.

Upon the heights of the Meuse, the Germans took 130 French prisoners in counter attacks.

In the Vosges Mountains the Germans shifted their positions during the night from the western to the eastern bank of the Fecht River. The movement of the Germans was not opposed by the French.

German aviators have attacked Courcelles. Aviators of the allies have attacked Brugge and Ostend without doing much damage.

Lime Medication in Tuberculosis

In the N. Y. Medical Record of December 5, 1914, Dr. John North, of Toledo, says: "I have come to the conclusion that one of the most prominent causes (of tuberculosis) is 'lime starvation.' * In all cases of incipient tuberculosis there is a deficiency of calcium. Many do not eat foods containing enough lime, in such cases we must resort to lime medication."

Eckman's Alterative should be given a fair trial in such cases, because one of its chief ingredients is calcium (lime), in addition to combination with other remedial agents as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Where its use is combined with proper diet, fresh air and hygienic living conditions, we believe it will prove beneficial in any case of tuberculosis.

It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs so as safe to use. Sold by all Rexall Drug Stores and leading druggists.

EXPECT DEFINITE GERMAN REPLY

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Administration officials heard with gratification today that the preparation of the German reply to the American note has been begun by the Berlin foreign office, and there is a prospect that it will be definite.

Unofficial but reliable advices received here state that the first draft of the note is being entrusted to experts of the German foreign office, but this draft is to be sent to the Kaiser for approval and the latter will shape the final note which comes to this country and upon which so much depends.

It is understood that the Kaiser's intention to frame the note is pleasing to official Washington, because the German Emperor has expressed himself friendly to the United States, and it is not believed he would seek a break in the amicable relations which have existed between the two countries.

President Wilson will confer with Secretary Lansing tomorrow on the note to Germany relating to the Frye case. The note may be sent to the Berlin Foreign Office this week, the President stated today, but it is not probable.

Robert Lansing, acting Secretary of State, still is regarded as in the lead for the premiership, although the President has given no intimation of his probable choice.

DANA COLLAPSES UNDER STRAIN OF WIFE'S SUICIDE

Shaw Dana, left motherless by the suicide of the "perfect bride" of Edmund T. Dana. "Baby Bunting"—that's what Mrs. Dana called him—will be reared according to her philosophy of life—a complete disregard of conventionalities.

Suffering the mental strain caused by the suicide of his wife in the sea off a bleak jetty at Nantucket, Edmund Trowbridge Dana, perfect husband of the ethical marriage, is today confined to his bed with a high fever. He is at the Summer home of his father, Richard H. Dana, at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

"My boy has been suffering severely the last few days," said Mr. Dana today. "His temperature ran up to 102½ today and his pulse was high. His physician said that his last few interviews with newspapermen tired Edmund severely, and, acting under the advice of the physicians, my son has decided to shut himself off from all visitors."

Dana is under the immediate care of Dr. G. H. Washburn of Manchester. His father said that because of his illness he would be obliged to forego the Harvard commencement.

Dana's sister-in-law will come on from White Plains, N. Y. about August 1, bringing Shaw Dana, aged eleven months, the perfect baby that his mother called "Baby Bunting." Plans will be made for the upbringing of the child along the line of philosophy advocated by his mother before her tragic death.

OLD DEMON RUM ABSENT AT YALE

By International News Service.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 22.—Yale grads of the past fifty years gathered at Yale today. The chief feature of the annual occasion was the entire absence of Old Demon Rum, who was cast out forever by common consent of all the classes. The piece de resistance was the annual baseball game at Yale Field with Harvard.

Another feature was the presence of two class babies, one of them R. E. L. Wilson, 3d, of Memphis, Tenn., and the other Dever Warner, Jr., of Bridgeport.

Speaking to the alumni, the president said that the stream of gifts which had flowed so generously during the last decade had been temporarily circulated during the year in the European war. It had been a year of international development which, while less showy than endowments and new buildings, was no less vital.

Speaking of athletics, Dr. Hadley said:

"My personal impression is that unless we are to follow the example of other institutions and leave faculty responsibility for athletics, which I should much deplore, the amount of graduate control will have to be still further increased in the immediate future."

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were rarely firm at the opening and soon were strong. The majority of issues opened higher in New York, while coal issues showed more irregular. The early price range was narrow. Business was in good volume at the start, measured by the recent standard. There was not much disposition to sell, and on the supply of stocks appeared rather limited the market had some initial support. Many people believed investment is fundamentally healthy, but for short-time engagements no one interested could see anything that would be simply. Few experts more of a movement either way can be until after Germany has both heard a break in the amicable relations which have existed between the two countries.

MANY STOCKS ADVANCED.

After trading had progressed fifteen minutes many issues in New York showed gains, including Amalgamated Sa, American Can 1½, American Telephone 1½, Baltimore & Ohio ¼, Reading ½, Union Pacific ¾, U. S. Steel ¼, Utah Copper ¾, Anaconda ¼, American Locomotive 1½, Baldwin Locomotive ¾, General Electric ¼, Studebaker ¼, and Westinghouse ¼. Among declines were Alaska Gold ¼, Chino ¼, Northern Pacific ¼, Pebble, Amp. Steel Foundries, Rock Island ¼ and U. S. Rubber 1¾. Utah Copper, one of the most active issues, advanced 1¼ to 47¼.

Zinc issues were weak in Boston. Butte & Superior broke off ¾ and American Zinc ¾. Coppers were high er. Calumet & Arizona was up 1¼, Copper Range ¾, Greene-Cananea ¾, Osceola 1½, and Mohawk 1¼. Mass mineral issues were also in demand, strong feature having advanced 1¼ on one transaction. Alaska Gold was up ¼. A number of issues were unchanged.

COPPER, LEAD AND ZINC.

The copper market is rather dull at the moment and the price of electrolytic is nominally from 29 to 29½ cents a pound. It is said that lead can be bought at 3½ cents. At Joplin from $100 to $128 a ton is being asked for zinc ore, although a speller was offered below 97 cents a pound yesterday.

TURKS REPULSE FLEET ATTACKS

By LUDWIG VON KLEIN,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 22.—The Ottoman forces have successfully repulsed attacks of the allied fleets and armies on the Dardanelles defenses, according to official statements issued by the War Office today. The Turks succeeded in driving off the fleet of destroyers and mine sweepers.

The statement follows:

"On the Dardanelles front fruitless military and infantry duels have occurred. The enemy's attempts to advance with the aid of their fleet have been repulsed.

"The Anatolian coast batteries on Monday shelled with success the enemy's destroyers, mine sweepers and artillery. Fire. Enemy aviators dropped thirty bombs on these batteries without damage."

MACALMAN URGES BETTER STREETS

J. H. MacAlman, president of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, today tells why Boston should improve its streets at once. He urges immediate action.

By J. H. MacALMAN,
President of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association.

The deplorable condition of the streets of Boston is working an immeasurable harm to the automobile industry. The terrible condition of the streets has already resulted in the loss of many sales of automobiles.

The financial loss to the automobile trade is a big one. It affects hundreds of men who are connected with the selling of motor cars and accessories and also the repairing and garaging of them. As president of New England's greatest automobile organization, it is clearly my duty to protest against these conditions. The members of this association in the aggregate sell many million dollars worth of cars in a year. The city should do all in its power to encourage this industry that employes thousands of high salaried salesmen and mechanics.

In the past it has been our proudest boast that the best roads in America were to be found in Boston. Thousands of motorists from every State in the Union came here in the Summer months to enjoy them. This meant a big income to our hotels, restaurants and department stores. If we are to allow our roads to go to rack and ruin these people will not come here. In a month's time this news would travel from one end of the country to the other and it would work untold harm.

From an economic standpoint it is bad. The great majority of these roads could be repaired if work was begun immediately. Another month of travel over them will put them beyond repair and the city will have to ultimately spend several times the amount now needed to rebuild them.

Let those who have the power to provide better streets act AT ONCE.

FAMOUS KNOCKOUTS OF THE PRIZE RING ACCIDENTS, SAYS WILLARD

(Copyright, 1915, by A. Merritt. All rights reserved.)

PRIZE fighting is built up on accidents. All the famous blows, especially knock-out punches, were just stumbled on. I can't find that any fighter ever sat down and studied a wallop out in advance.

In my first fight with Fink I hammered him on the top of the head. Before I met Burke, somebody told me that the jaw was the place to hit. So I knocked out Burke by landing on his jaw. I put Fink to sleep the same way at our second meeting.

I didn't know how or why. I asked about it afterwards, and they told me that a blow on the point of the jaw caused a slight concussion of the brain. It turned off the lights for a few seconds or minutes.

It was about that time that I began to read up on ring history. I wanted to find out all that I could about my new business. It's a good idea in any business. Be curious about your job. Look up what the fellows did that had it before you.

By now I've read almost everything written about the English and American ring. And the thing that struck me hardest was to see how the so-called science of fighting has been left to lucky chances.

When the old gladiators fought back there in Rome and Greece they hit at the temple. The skull was thinnest there. They had their hands wrapped in oxhide studded with brass. No wonder they killed each other.

Hundreds of years later, when the old Britons started in on the sport, they still swung at the temple, thinking it was the one weak spot. Pierce, the Game Chicken, was the first fighter to find a new punch. Just as he let go a terrific right for the temple, the man threw back his head. Pierce's fist crashed full into the Adam's apple.

It was just as though he had choked the fellow. Such a blow is no good nowadays. There isn't a fighter in the ring who doesn't keep his chin tucked in.

Gully, another great champion, did the same thing almost. He missed his swing for the temple, and landed on the ear. His man went down like a log. Gully had discovered the mastoid process. That's the little bump just behind and below the ear, and a mighty important part of the head. The old English fighters called it the burr of the ear.

Tommy Ryan was about the only modern fighter who used this blow. He was always afraid of hurting his hands, and so he got in the way of using his wrists as well as fists. When he'd wallop at the jaw, his glove reached back to the mastoid process, and he found it mighty effective.

Bendigo and Spring, two famous old-timers, were smaller than most of the men they fought. It was hard for them to reach [illegible] and the ear. So they [illegible] for what they called the "[illegible]" wasn't the pit of the [illegible]h at all, but the whole abdomen. I can't find that either of them ever reached the solar plexus, but they weakened their men by the stomach punching.

Fitzsimmons first met his solar plexus punch by accident. In one of his training bouts, he didn't get back far enough from a left hand lead to the body. The glove barely touched him, but it happened to hit the right spot exactly.

Fitz remembered it. Round after round he took Corbett's punishment without trying for a body blow. He made Jim forget that there was such a thing as a stomach.

At last, when he had gotten Corbett's guard up high enough, he flashed loose. But he didn't know that he had hit the solar plexus until the doctors told him so.

George Dixon, in breaking away from a clinch, walloped his man on the back just to show that he could. The fellow gave a groan of pain, and George added the famous "kidney punch" to his list of blows.

I do not like the blow myself. It doesn't take any skill to give it, and it's dangerous. A man gets over a knockout very quickly, whether jaw or solar plexus, but a bruised or ruptured kidney lasts a long time. I'm glad to see that the National Sporting Club doesn't allow it any more.

The old style of guarding—head up and left arm out—left the jaw particularly open to Sullivan's battering-ram attack.

This is the quickest and best of all the knock-out punches. The bone between the brain and the points of the jaw is a very thin bone. A blow drives the jaw point up against this thin temporal bone, and the brain is jarred.

Some fighters have a temporal bone as thin as a sheet of paper. The slightest punch on the jaw knocks them out. Bombardier Wells is an example of the "glass jaw" fighter.

Other fellows have a very thick temporal bone, and we call them "iron jawed." Joe Grimm must have had a temporal bone as thick as an oak plank.

Peter Jackson discovered the "heart blow" in a training bout. He landed it by accident, and was a mighty surprised man when he saw what it did.

Every now and then you read where a man is killed by a heart punch. It isn't the blow that kills. Whiskey is the murderer. The fighter weakens his heart by drinking, and any strain is liable to prove dangerous. So little a thing as running for a street car sometimes stops the "whiskey heart."

There isn't one chance in a thousand for a man to get killed in the ring if he's got a sound body. That's why I believe in medical examinations before a fight.

Keep out the "whiskey hearts" and there won't be any more deaths. The same advice goes for amateur boxing and wrestling. Let them alone if you are a drinker.

"Kid" McCoy's famous "liver punch" was another accident. In his fight with Plankie, a big Dutchman, McCoy tried for a stomach punch. Plankie turned, and the heel of the glove caught him full over the liver. He gave a grunt like a stuck pig, and when McCoy got over being surprised, he tried it again.

Battling Nelson used the liver punch a whole lot, and won many fights with it.

La Blanche knocked out Jack Dempsey with a "pivot blow." It was absolutely accidental. The Marine, whipped to a frazzle, was staggering around the ring trying to escape punishment. Dempsey was rushing him like a cyclone, eager to land the finishing wallop.

La Blanche, running away, whirled suddenly with his right arm out. His circle made it travel like a war club, and the fist met Dempsey's jaw. It was several minutes before the Nonpareil came back to earth.

The pivot is barred today for the same reason that the kidney punch isn't allowed. It isn't skill.

About the only thought-out wallop I know is Fitzsimmons's terrible shift. Both fists start going half-way, then the position changes quickly, and the other glove crashes into the body at lightning speed.

Ketchel improved the shift, and used it more than anybody else.

Fitzsimmons also perfected the upper-cut at close range. It was a favorite punch with old Lanky Bob and Tommy Ryan. Both men could deliver a knock-out punch at a six-inch range, for they had tremendous shoulder muscles.

The left-hand lab, credited to Corbett, was used a hundred years ago. When Tom Cribb went up against a giant one time, his first blow gashed the big man's eye. His seconds told Cribb to close the peeper, and it was out of that advice that we got the left jab and quick get-away.

Closing an opponent's eyes with left-hand pokes played a big part in fighting until flat-footed, hard-hitting fellows like Sullivan, Kilrain and Paddy Ryan came along. Corbett, forced into footwork by fear of Sullivan's terrible right, promptly revived the old left-hand jab that Cribb and Spring and Belcher used.

I have made the mistake of thinking that those old-timers weren't clever. Their rules allowed wrestling as well as hitting, and this made the fighters seem nothing more than mere sluggers. And I don't suppose the world ever saw such wonderful courage as Jem Langham and Harry Orme battled for three hours. The hundred and seventy-ninth round found both men almost out. Orme couldn't move his legs. Langham hobbled over to him and tried to swing. He missed, fell from his own blow, and couldn't get up. The fight went to Orme.

Brutal, maybe, but it taught big lessons. The whole race was that boxing is the best exercise in the world for boys and men. It develops the whole body, and gives a man something to take the place of vicious stimulants like whiskey and tobacco.

But boxing does more. It teaches a fellow to stand punishment. It cures the "cry-baby" and takes the white out of a man. Fellows who box learn to keep their tempers, for they soon find out that it doesn't pay to get mad. Young Corbett whipped Terry McGovern because he made Terry lose his temper.

I wouldn't want to see the old-time bare knuckle fighting come in again. You can't get away from the fact that it was brutal. But I would like to see Americans get the idea that it is a good thing for blood to be red, for hands to be hard and for hearts to be stout.

DICK RUDOLPH TO FACE DODGERS

By H. W. LANIGAN.

The Braves are back in town and more than likely their rush upward to lofty heights will date from what they do to Wilbert Robinson's Dodgers from the lesser end of greater New York at Fenway Park this afternoon.

We have the hunch that "Dick" Rudolph is going to start and that the Braves are going to do up the Dodgers. We likewise hope that our happy holocaust will come true.

The Braves were three games out of first place when they hit out for the West the evening of June 3. The trip was a disastrous one, nine of the thirteen games being captured by the Cubs, Reds and Pirates. As a result of all this juggling the Champs fell back to six and one-half games behind the leaders.

The army of the faithful should worry. New York, the logical runner-up to the Braves when it's all over but the shouting, stands behind the resident Dodgers, another fairly good lig are also trailing the Braves. So are the Reds, but this entry is not going to cut any ice, so need not be considered.

Chief Bender will not be playing much in his usual custom if he does not start Rudolph today. The Mackmen have Bush or the brother, "Wheezer" Dell, in Big Robbie's morning try for fourth.

The series with the Dodgers will consist of only three games. The Braves depart for a swing around the eastern end of the circuit after the closing show Thursday. Friday the Red Sox will be back at Fenway Park.

BRITTON BATTLES GLOVER TONIGHT

ATLAS A. A. PROGRAM.

Mike Glover, South Boston, vs. Jack Britton, New York, twelve rounds.

"Young" Jasper, North End, vs. "Belgium" Brown, Gloucester, eight rounds.

John Murphy, South Boston, vs. Johnny Noonan, Dorchester, six rounds.

Johnny Emery, Cambridge, vs. Jack Mansfield.

By JACK CONWAY.

There is not any need to become excited, gentle reader, because loud, penetrating noises are today being heard around our city. The disturbance is not the result of heavy artillery fire. Our old friend and college chum, Daniel "Dumb" Morgan, is merely holding forth in conversation with a few of his friends.

Be it known that the mighty Daniel is manager of Jack Britton, who is booked to clash with Mike Glover in a twelve-round bout at the Atlas A. A. tonight. Morgan has been telling his listeners all day what Britton is going to do to Glover.

"Britton is in great condition," declared Morgan, today. "He is fighting better than he has at any time during his career in the ring, and I expect him to flatten Glover in seven or eight rounds."

Strange to say, Glover is not doing any worrying. He informs us that he expects to score a win over Britton.

George Freeman, manager of Glover, remarked that he believes his protege would prove a little bit too fast for Britton tonight. In discussing the coming tussle, George said:

"Britton is a great fighter, but in my opinion Glover will outpoint him. Mike has prepared himself carefully for the fray, and should prove a winner by a comfortable margin. He has already beaten Britton once, and I think he will repeat at the Atlas Club."

AFTER giving all the available "dope" the once over, we are not a bit fearful in asserting that there should be plenty of action at the Arena tonight. The show is one of the best which has been arranged by the local club this year.

The tussle between Britton and Glover has aroused a great deal of interest among fistic fans. There are few welterweights who are in the same class with these men. Just now each of them is out to prove he is the leading boxer in his class. Consequently they should perform at a merry clip when Referee Haley starts festivities.

THERE are few welterweight's who are better known than Britton. He has met most of the star men of his weight in the country and has usually strolled off the high honors. Britton proved that he possesses plenty of class when he clashed with Charley White at New Orleans a couple of years ago. The weight for Britton's bout with White was 153 pounds. Therefore, it cannot be said that he had a fine weight advantage on his opponent. White gave Britton a busy time but he was battered in the eighteenth round and was forced to quit.

BRITTON has already engaged in three bouts with Glover. He knocked out Eddie Murphy and Joe Egan, while he won on a foul from "Young" Sasher.

Britton has fought Glover twice. Mike won the first bout, while Britton outpointed the South Boston man in the second meeting.

"YOUNG JASPER will clash with "Belgium" Brown in the semi-final whirl of eight rounds. There will also be two six-round preliminary bouts.

AD WOLGAST will probably meet Joe Welling, a Chicago lightweight, in the Middle West on July 5. Welling has recently defeated Jack Marion, a third rater. This is one of his chief ring triumphs. Consequently if Welling is selected to clash with this youngster there is not little chance that Ad will become "ill" on the day of the tussle.

NATIONAL CLUBS PLAN BIG TRADE

NEW YORK, June 22—Supposedly well posted baseball writers of the Middle West keep insisting that the New York, Cincinnati and Chicago clubs are soon to figure in a big three-cornered trade. They declare that Jimmie Archer, catcher; Frank Schulte, outfielder, and Larry Cheney, pitcher, are to leave the Cubs; that outfielder Red Murray, outfielder Fred Brainard and Pitcher Ralph Stroud are to be cast adrift from the Giants; that Manager-Shortstop Charles Herzog and Catcher-Outfielder Ivy Wingo are to leave the Cincinnati Reds.

The plan, according to this rumor, is that Murray, Brainard and Stroud, together with Schulte, will go to Cincinnati; that McGraw will get Archer and Cheney and that Herzog and Wingo will go to Chicago. Wingo, who has been used in the outfield by the Reds, would make up in a measure for the loss of the veteran Archer, and Herzog would plug the shortfield gap of the Cubs. McGraw, it is known, has been trying desperately for weeks to land a catcher of class.

It is said that Jack Hendricks, manager of the Indianapolis American Association club, will succeed Herzog as pilot of the Reds. Hendricks has been in Cincinnati lately and in conference with August Herrmann. Hendricks is bound by a long term contract to his minor league berth, but it is believed that he may have made arrangements with President McGill whereby he may accept the promotion.

Fresh Favors for Fans

By H. W. LANIGAN.

From today until July 7, covering the interim of fourteen playing days, the Red Sox are underlined to take part in nineteen matinees. The entire series in Washington, inaugurated yesterday with a double bill, runs three more days. Then the Hose come home and pull the appended six with the Yankees in four days, four with the Macks in as many days and six with the Nationals in fours days. Colonel Ed Plank must not prevent the missing of any of these battles else there will be the Ned to pay and the Hose won't get in all the games with the families of Mack, Griff and Donovan. That's because when the three outfits come visiting on their last whirl they are scheduled to remain for our midst but three days each.

Carrigan's pinch-hitters gave out in the closing skit in Washington yesterday. Otherwise the Red Sox might have cleaned up. Cady got the finishing touch on the sparkling ninth-inning rally, when three runs were counted and the tally knotted, by busting out a most timely two-bagger. By this time almost every member of the squad had been shot into the show and, as General Bill had also drawn heavily on his hurlers, he had to play a long shot and put it up to Pennock. The Kid did his best, but his best was soft enough for first. That ended the noisy ninth round and the Nationals slipped over the winning counter in the tenth.

Were Joe Wood's mighty right whip not ailing him he would doubtless have gone up for Pennock, as Southpaw Boehling has always been one swifter in particular Joe has always whaled. Lady luck also dished the proper party to go to the hillock when the game was shoved into extra innings. But then, as Joe says, he did not break into the show at all, and has been out for the eight days, certainly goes to O. K. the AMERICANS story of a week ago that the renowned right-hander is not in trim for work. But Carrigan took Joe to Washington with the club and should he pitch in one of the remaining contests and come through with one of his good games, bugdom will be beside itself with joy.

* * *

Subbing for Scott, Janvrin did a fine week's work in Boston, finally showing on the home list to the same clean-cut manner he has always worked on the road. During the week Childs Harold raised the usual rough on the meritorious one of 270. In yesterday's double bill Janvrin punched out four hits, two doubles being included in the lucky package. Unfortunately his one bobble hurt, though errors have always been a part of the game. All in all, Janvrin is doing great work for the Hose fight now and, with the hurling scott a cripple, he has come to life at the proper time.

The Athletics turned over the tail-end position to the Browns yesterday by pulling the unexpected and taking two falls out of the Yankees. Donovan was afforded miserable support, Keating and Caldwell, reliable as a rule, being soundly soaked and sold with it. The Macks went as far as to pile up five errors and then thrash Keating anyhow.

* * *

The day's lone frolic in the N. L. was a corker, the Pirates slipping the Phils a beating in thirteen rounds. Collins, the San Antonio recruit, the umpteenth suburbanite to be used by Colonel Clarke this Summer, kept up his starry work by tallying the winning counter. He completed the 360-feet trip on his own one-spot, a miscue by Bancroft and "Big Bill" Hinchman's timely wallop. Doubles by Cravath and Saderaw, in the Box Car Brothers, in the ninth canto are what sent the show into extra rounds.

But for the 21-man rule, Adolph Luque, the Cuban, who made the Spring training trip with the Braves and who unpressed Chief Stallings in very so-so style, would probably have stuck and, judging Adolph on the good form he has displayed for Toronto all Summer, he might be helping out a lot Luque has probably had more chin-outs this Summer than any other hurler in the Baron circuit. He slipped Montreal nine horse-collars yesterday, twirling another Baron game. Thus, Luque will be recalled that Adolph made Brooklyn go out of the Braves when they faced him in an exhibition series on the Potts on an open date early in June.

"Chief" Bender pitched his first real good game for the Baltimore Feds yesterday. He humbled the clan of Tinker, only allowing eight hits to be transformed into two runs. It was one of the chief's first triumphs in upwards of a month for Herr Otto Knabe.

Jawn McGraw often remarked during the Winter of 1912-1913 that Hugh Bedient was not a first-class flinger and that time would prove it. Inasmuch as Hugh failed to come back for the Red Sox after the Winter of the heroes of the big show in 1912 and was relegated to the role of one Stopping over to the Feds you know, what must be credited with making the right guess. Bedient got another trimming yesterday, in fact, he has transformed into two runs. It was one of the chief's first tryouts in upwards of a month for Herr Otto Knabe.

Nabors, pitching for Newman, in the Georgia-Alabama League, established what is regarded as a record in organized baseball by pitching against the Talladega club for thirteen innings without giving a hit, a run or a base on balls. Only forty men faced Nabors, who won, 1 to 0.

Old time baseball fans probably remember Jack Hornung when he played left field for the champion Bostons of 1886, and later covered the same position for the Giants. Hornung was one of the greatest throwers in the game in those days, also a fine batsman and baserunner. A week ago he was appointed a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which preserves order at the Polo Grounds, and signed in a new uniform he began his duties in the centre field bleachers.

NEW TITLE RACE FOR BEACH BIKERS

Elmer Collins, George Wiley and Clarence Carman, the "Big Three" in the 30-mile All-American motor-paced race which will be held at the Revere Cycle Track tomorrow night, complete their training at the beach oval today.

This race will be exclusively American. The riders are Americans, the pacemakers are American, and the motorcycles and bicycles are American made. The event has been appropriately nicknamed the "Made in America Race."

It is the first race scheduled for which no foreign star has been signed, so really it is a forerunner to the national championships, which will be held later in the season.

Strangely enough right on the very eve of the race Elmer Collins has been made the favorite. Wiley was the opening choice but it appears that Collins' great victory over Vic Linart swung the favoritism to Collins. Carman is the "dark horse," but is considered a very strong entry.

This race was scheduled to take place last Saturday night but was put off till tomorrow night.

As amateur tandem handicap race and the regular list of professional and amateur contests will precede the main event.

Poughkeepsie Crews Will Get Hard Work

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 22.—Hard work is to order for all of the crews here today though water prevented any rowing. Yesterday, however, hard work was done and although all the crews were out on the river The Cornell crew toured five or six miles near the west shore, under the lee of the hills where the water was fairly smooth.

Coach Guerena took his Stanford crew down stream and encountered some pretty rough water. The shell shipping considerable water before the crew returned to the float.

The Pennsylvania and Syracuse crews rowed up stream, hugging the west shore and keeping out of the white caps and heavy roll. Coach Ten Eyck did not use the launch, showing the work of the Syracuse men from the float.

The attendance this afternoon will break all records. There is an exceptionally large number of graduates here for class reunions.

The Harvard team is very confident that it will elevate the Yale scribes to a baseball as did that with Princeton. The Crimson nine has played but one ball this season, losing a twenty-four out of the twenty-eight games played. Yale does not boast of as high a record as that of the Cambridge nine, but the Blue is respectable by a fair margin, with the exception of two positions, Yale is far superior to Harvard.

Callahan, the Yale pitcher twirling all season, is regarded as the best man in the Big Three. Mahan is not only a great pitcher but he is the brains of the Harvard team. As the outcome of this series does not put the coaches to occupy positions on the bench, Mahan will be the hardest worker here today.

YALE HAS FINE INFIELD.

The Natick boy has played a great deal of baseball and knows the game from every angle. The only other spot where Harvard has the bulge on its Yale rivals is at first place, where Heine Nash, the greatest first pitcher of the season, is on the job.

"Pie" Way, who will oppose Mahan today, is a right-hander who has a very fine twister, and until the middle of the season he was pitching great ball. It is the general opinion that Way has made during the last six weeks, if anyone is through he has been very much overworked during the early weeks of the season. Way, however, has had practically nothing things very easy of late and it was announced today that he was in fine shape and would start against Harvard.

Yale has the classiest infields that ever represented the Blue. Bush, Milburn, Reilly and Lagore have been playing wonderful ball during all year and all are fine hitters. Lagore is the big cog in the infield of the Yale team. Although this is Lagore's first season on the varsity, his fine fielding and batting has been the comment throughout the country. He is a fast man on the bases, one of the kinds of ground, possesses one of the greatest arms in the country, and is a natural leader. Bush, who is said to be playing his usual spectacular game at short, has been playing the ball up to his usual standard. Bush and Milburn on the other side of the diamond are both clever ball players. The Middlebrook boys and Rhett will compose the outfield. The Middlebrooks are mainly depended upon, and Captain Louis Middlebrook is one of the Yale mainstays with the wagon tongue.

HARTE SHOULD HIT.

Dick Harte, who made such a fine reputation for himself as a hitter during the startling weeks of the season, will be behind the bat for the Crimson. Although Harte has been in a batting slump for the last few weeks, he is a grand hitter and one who is liable to come through at any time. Harte has batted well over the .300 mark for the season, an average of .299. It is generally conceded that one of the close followers of the Harvard team is George Abbott, proved to be the greatest find of the season. Abbott is one of the greatest fielders on the campus and although he has been batting averages up in the air, he is starting the ball of the Yale games. Abbott is expected to be in the game to show at his best, in important style.

Charlie Brickley, "Minnie" Frye and Ted Hardwick will make up the Harvard outfield, Brickley being the exception of Brickley, Yale has a natural outfield of the first class, Hardwick and Frye are hitting better than any of the Yale outfielders.

The Harvard squad squads will leave New Haven tonight after the game for Cambridge, where the second game will be played tomorrow.

How to Win Street Fights.

Boxing and street fighting are two different things. But the man who can box is nearly always able to take care of himself if he does get into a rough and tumble.

In tomorrow's installment of Jess Willard's autobiography he explains two simple yet highly useful blows which any boy can pick up quickly. The average bully can't box; he depends on his size and strength, and when some little fellow runs rings around him in a fight he can't understand it, so he generally quits.

You, who read Willard's explanation, will underst nd it thoroughly, however.

DUNDEE CHAMPION AERIAL FIGHTER

By DAMON RUNYON.

NEW YORK, June 22—In the first round of his fight with Leach Cross at Ebbets Field Friday night Johnny Dundee hurt the first flivver on the floor, and in that round he looked like a real fighting aeroplane by leaping high in the air, throwing out his fists while on the wing, and flattening about to the finny scales of the Borough of Brooklyn after the manner of an infuriated bullfrog.

In cutting these capers John got so found then to give Leach quite a battling one way and another, and his friends declared thereof, but to me, at least, the battle took on the elements of a slight disagreement which increased the higher John climbed into the ether. Maybe his curious gyrations interested the head of the proxis, but we are so accustomed to the lads who stay on the floor that the first battle I ever saw partial to this lofty style.

Dundee is a good fighter, a very good fighter, who may some day be a champion. That he does not have a real chance to be one at present is due to reasons which by the way he is provided. They will go up to the Yale quarters today and pay the Harvard men a visit. Then they will go to their tabernacle, rise and read the Harvard yell. Then they will listen to a special wire from the field being provided.

Siebert Elected Captain.

WILLIAMSTOWN, June 22.—Eppie Siebert, '14, was elected baseball captain of the Williams nine for next season.

WHAT TAKES A SEAT.

The freshman sight came along one day and got in the shirt of No. 7. He wanted a seat and he had a half mind to take it. After this the Hoosier Kid and Bill Rodgers, the Boston Athletic A. A. crack, had a half mile to run. Rodgers was a half mile to the three-mile run and then Rhoades and Kid Lewis had a mile to run. The practised racing starts and short distance at a high speed.

In the meantime, while this was going on, the freshman sight came along and got in the shirt of No. 7. He wanted a seat and he had a half mind to take it. ## HARVARD READY TO BET ON RACE

HARVARD TRAINING QUARTERS, Red Top, Ct., June 22.—But two days remain to put on the finishing touches for the Harvard crews, all practice will finish Thursday and they will be ready for a light outlook over the course.

Several innovations have been introduced this week, and the men have taken to them with a relish. Coach Wray has introduced a system of signals which has proved of great benefit to all concerned.

Any amount of money can be had on the Harvard crew, and the Crimson backers posted a thousand dollars or better on their own men at the Hotel Griswold in New London.

Yesterday afternoon the entire crew rowed down the river to the mouth of the river and each crew was sent out separately. The coaches were taken aboard launches and followed the crews in a paddle and listened at this point, rowed a half mile or so against a strong tide and wind. After this short spurt Wray sent them to the boathouse and each crew was timed over the course. During these runs several starts were made, and the Harvard coach was well pleased with the showing of his men.

Wray has introduced a system of signals which made excellent pace on the practice runs. Each man in the crew knows exactly what is expected of him at the different stages of the race and the coaches have only to signal to the men to have them respond. Wray has also introduced a system of starting which has proved very satisfactory.

Captain Murray is doing splendid work with the crew and has visited his quarters yesterday and remained to see the crews practice. During the afternoon they visited the Mystic drawbridge, where the crews passed under the bridge. Captain Murray is very pleased with the showing these practised racing starts.

Quite a lot of sentiment was expressed by the men as to which crew was the better. The coaches would not express an opinion.

Captain Murray's loving brother, Lieut. Murray, U. S. A., visited his quarters yesterday.

VISIT YALE QUARTERS

Many visitors to New Haven are expected as the Yale management said word that they had been disappointed at the number of applications which may be provided. They will go up to Yale quarters today and pay the Harvard men a visit. Then they will go to their tabernacle, rise and read the Harvard yell. Then they will listen to a special wire from the field being provided.

TOUR CONTEST TO END IN 11 DAYS

The AMERICAN'S California Tours Contest for Twenty-five Tours 1915 LUXE in the Pacific Coast and the Expositions —221 miles in 10 and 15 eleven days' motor trips, the final vote to be counted July 23.

It should not be necessary to remind again all candidates or their partisans or readers, or even to repeat the rules contained in the next several days.

Candidates are reminded that there will be just one more vote credit coupon and they should get in touch with every friend, relative and acquaintance and urge them to realize as many of these 10-vote coupons as possible—enough to put them among the leading twenty-five candidates.

Munitions of War Barred from Ships of American Line

Munitions of war and all other articles for the armies of the different countries of Europe, are positively barred from shipment on steamships of the American Line according to an announcement made by P. A. S. Franklin, vice-president of the International Mercantile Marine Company.

As a result, those who wish to travel or to send goods on either of the steamships of the line will be under the protection of the American colors, can find security on the United States mail steamers New York, St. Paul, Philadelphia and St. Louis, which ply regularly between New York and Liverpool.

The International Mercantile Marine Company has special accommodation on the dock to see that no freight is delivered which could be objected to by any of the belligerents.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

Governor John Slaton, Just and Courageous

His Action in the Frank Case Indicates His Stand and Rebukes Unwarranted Criticism

Governor Slaton of Georgia has commuted the sentence of Leo M. Frank, and in doing so he has earned the thanks of his State and of all those who recognize manly courage.

Governor Slaton's action is all the more creditable because it involved displeasing many inevitably and because he might easily and without criticism have evaded the issue and left the entire question to his successor who will be Governor in a few days. But Governor Slaton is a man who does not evade issues. He meets them.

He has disposed of the Frank case in a way that shows moral and personal courage, the courage of a man whom threats do not interest or influence.

Two judges of the Supreme Court of the United States, in written opinions, declared that Frank had not had the protection guaranteed to him by the constitution of the United States.

The Judge who presided at the only trial in which the question of Frank's guilt or innocence was raised expressed, before he died, doubt as to Frank's guilt.

By Governor Slaton's action, announced after long meditation and deep study, a case that has aroused interest throughout the entire nation is disposed of, and with admirable wisdom.

We print here two messages to Governor Slaton which speak for themselves, and express, we believe, the general opinion of the people who have taken the trouble to investigate carefully the very important matter which Governor Slaton has courageously settled.

New York, June 10, 1915.

Honorable John Marshall Slaton,
Governor, Atlanta, Ga.

My Dear Governor:—I am sending you a final appeal for the commutation of Frank's sentence, on grounds which I hope will appeal to you and which you know to be my true and deep sentiments.

I would have made this appeal public, but did not know whether or not such an action on my part would be acceptable to you.

I therefore send it to you personally and would be glad to have it made public if you desire.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

---

New York, June 10, 1915.

Hon. John Marshall Slaton,
Governor of Georgia, Atlanta, Ga.

My Dear Governor:—You know me well enough to know I would not make appeal in the case of Frank except in response to a deep conviction and a sincere sense of duty.

I do not, in fact, make this appeal in the interest of Frank, and certainly not in my own interest. I make it in what I believe to be the interest of our country as a whole, and particularly of that southern section with which I am so closely connected and so intimately identified.

You know that I not only have business associations in the South and greatly valued friends there, but that the families of both my mother and father came from the South in States closely adjoining Georgia.

Therefore I ask the right to speak, not as a northerner but as a southern man. I ask the right to present to you and fellow citizens of Georgia some points which seem to me to make the imposing of the life imprisonment penalty upon Frank, instead of the death penalty, unquestionably the better and safer and wiser course in the face of all the circumstances.

I wish, with your consent, to call to your attention and the public attention that there never has been in the protracted proceedings of this case either conclusive proof or unanimous agreement as to his guilt.

In every step of the legal proceedings there seems to have been some wholly responsible and admittedly able officials legitimately concerned in the proceedings who have had strong and sustained doubts of Frank's guilt.

The trial judge entertained and expressed doubt of his guilt. Certain members of the Georgia Supreme Court had doubt of his guilt. Certain members of the Supreme Court of the United States had doubt as to the fairness of his trial. One of the three members of the board of pardons recommended a commutation of the sentence.

So that all through the long chain of legal proceedings there has evidently been on every occasion sufficient doubt as to the man's guilt to justify a part, and a creditable part, of the bodies before which his case came in believing the case against him unproven.

If this doubt as to Frank's guilt has been held and expressed by so many able and responsible men in so many different bodies, is not the assertion justified that legitimate doubt as to his guilt widely exists? And if there is that legitimate doubt or any reasonable doubt as to his guilt, ought not the man be given the sentence of life imprisonment instead of the death sentence?

Both are in a way the extreme penalty for murder, but the former leaves an opportunity to right a terrible wrong in case some time in the future the doubts of these various officials should be proven to have been justified.

Let me hastily review the case, without bias or prejudice of any kind, merely summarizing in the simplest manner the plain, proven facts upon which all men must agree, and eliminating all the theories and inferences.

Frank was convicted on the testimony of the negro Conley. There were only two men that could have committed the murder, both of these men being in the building at the time of the death.

Either Frank must have committed the murder or the negro must have committed the murder so that the testimony of the negro which inculpated Frank exculpated himself.

Was the negro of such a character as to make his testimony especially worthy of belief? He certainly was not. He was a convicted criminal, and on his own testimony an accomplice in this particular crime.

Was the testimony of the negro of such convincing and unimpeachable character as to compel belief, notwithstanding the character of the white? The negro made three sworn statements, all of them differing in material facts. All of them, therefore, could not have been true. At least two of them must have been false. So that the negro is a convicted perjurer in two cases out of three, no matter which one we choose to believe.

Ought any man to be sent to his death on the testimony of a criminal, an ex-convict, a confessed accomplice, a proven perjurer and one who would himself necessarily be convicted as the murderer unless he could succeed in fastening the crime upon another?

Now, then, is there any other evidence in this case which would tend to convict Frank, any sufficient evidence of any kind or character, to corroborate the statements of this criminal, this proven perjurer and this vitally interested negro?

I have made as careful study of the case as I can as a layman and I am absolutely convinced that there is no such evidence, but my opinion as a layman on this point may not be of any special value.

However, I have at hand to sustain my opinion in this matter the opinion of one of the ablest lawyers and jurists in the State of New York.

Last December, before the Hon. Clarence J. Shearn became justice of the Supreme Court of New York State, I asked him to go to Atlanta to investigate with the utmost thoroughness the case against Frank, so that I might be thoroughly informed in the matter and might enlighten my own opinion by a complete technical presentation of the exact facts and legal evidence. His report I append, and it goes to show that a wholly able and entirely unprejudiced lawyer, who previously knew nothing about the case, examined it carefully, read the printed part containing the evidence, read the summing up of the State solicitor, read the State's brief on one of the appeals, read all the evidence and arguments and became completely convinced that, to quote his words, "there was no evidence in the case, OUTSIDE OF THE TESTIMONY OF THE NEGRO CONLEY, upon which even reasonable hypothesis of guilt may be based."

If this is the fact, and if the negro Conley is as wholly discreditable and discredited as every one knows him to be, and if there is, therefore, and must be a reasonable doubt in the minds of all unprejudiced men as to the possible guilt of Frank, should not Frank, I repeat, receive that one of the two maximum penalties which leaves open the opportunity for the correction of a terrible injustice if revelation shall be made which shall prove his conviction to have been a mistake?

I make this appeal to you because I am your friend, because I am interested in the section from which my people came, and in which I have so many friends and connections and interests, and because I am overwhelmed by the awful possibilities of future developments of fact in this case.

I make it because I know you to be a man who takes a broad and far-sighted and patriotic view of all public questions. I know you to be a man of exceptional courage and of steadfastness where any great principle is concerned.

I have heard you say that any man could do the right thing in an ordinary situation, but the test of a really big man, of a really great and genuine man, was to be able to do the right in an exceptionally critical and important situation.

I know that a great many mistakes have been made in the conduct of Frank's case before the public by well-meaning but ill-advised and injudicious friends.

I know that outside influences have been brought to bear, when all that was needed was an appeal to the fairness and justice of the people of Georgia.

I know that detectives have been sent into the State needlessly and offensively, some of whom were more concerned in advertising themselves and in attracting attention by sensational strong arm methods than they were in securing evidence in behalf of the unhappy prisoner they were sent to help.

I know that many newspapers throughout the nation have selfishly and sordidly sought to exalt themselves rather than to help Frank and in so doing have attacked Georgia and the people of Georgia, and have stirred up resentment and prejudice, when they should have promoted judicial calmness and a careful consideration of this case on its merits.

But I feel that you, as the Governor of a great State and a man whom I know to be a good and just man, apart from any public position, should rise above all these smaller matters, above all the mistakes of the friends of Frank, above all the antagonism of his enemies, and deal with this question as the Great Judge, eventually deals with us, in a spirit of supreme justice.

You know the sincerity of my friendship for you and my other friends in Georgia. You know the depth of my affection for the South, the home of my mother's people and my father's people. You know that my one and only object is to prevent the possibility of a great mistake being made, a mistake which, if made, could never be rectified, a mistake which, if made and later discovered, would involve you and Georgia and the whole country in everlasting and unavailing sorrow and regret.

Commutation to life imprisonment will prevent the possibility of such a mistake and will still remain as great a punishment as death itself if Frank shall never be proven guiltless of this crime.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

A statement by Justice Clarence J. Shearn, made before he became justice of the Supreme Court, and after a careful examination in Atlanta of all the evidence and a transcript of all the documents in the Frank case.

New York, June 10, 1915.

I went to Atlanta, as requested by you, for the purpose of making a careful examination into the case of Leo Frank from the impartial standpoint of a lawyer who previously knew nothing about the facts of the case. Supplementing my full oral report to you, I state herewith, for the purpose of future reference, the result of my investigation.

In order to arrive at a conclusion based solely upon the evidence and before discussing the case with any person, I read the printed record containing the evidence introduced upon Frank's trial, and the argument to the jury made by State Solicitor Dorsey. I also read the State's brief on appeal, so as to be fully apprised of everything that the State claimed to have established against Frank.

My deliberate judgment, based solely upon the record and formed as a judge would reach a conclusion in passing upon it on appeal, is that not only did the prosecution fail to prove Frank to be guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, but that, outside of the incredible and interested testimony of the suspected negro, Conley, an admitted accomplice, there is no legal evidence whatever in the case upon which even a reasonable hypothesis of Frank's guilt may be based. The irresistible conclusion to be reached on the evidence in the record is not only that Frank is innocent, but that the negro is guilty.

After this examination of the record I interviewed and cross-examined Frank in the penitentiary for an hour or more. I then visited the factory where the crime was committed, and carefully examined all parts of the premises involved in the crime, which were mentioned or referred to in the testimony.

This resulted in confirming the conclusion that I had reached on reading the record. Yours sincerely,

CLARENCE J. SHEARN.

THE ABOVE MESSAGES TO GOVERNOR SLATON EXPRESSED, WE BELIEVE, THE JUDGMENT OF THOSE WHO HAVE TAKEN TIME TO INVESTIGATE THOROUGHLY THIS IMPORTANT, MOST IMPORTANT, CASE.
